A new performance, funded by the Ministry of Justice, designed to encourage prisoners to make constructive use of their prison visits.

The performance follows the stories of two prisoners and their relationships with their families, friends and other visitors. V.O. is lively, engaging and interactive and explores the following:

- The impact of imprisonment on families.
- Using visits to greatest effect in maintaining family relationships.
- Using visits as opportunities to practice positive parenting.
- The contribution that visits may have in terms of motivation to change and successful resettlement.

‘Fabulous delivery, significant impact. A great event’
John Parkinson, staff member at HMP Ranby
